The Nature Restore: Trash Cleanup

By Grace Cheung

Characters

Theodore

He is one of the main four of the illustration book, with the partner Jahiem that is together as roommates in one small house at the small town.

As being an extrovert, Theodore is the most chatty one. His main appeal towards things that is not necessary as himself, which lead to how of a snob he is in an occasion despite him being an absolutely sweetheart toward everyone. Otherwise, Theodore has maintain a sense of humor and solitary on handling the things that he is facing, adding that he will protect other people regarding hurting himself.

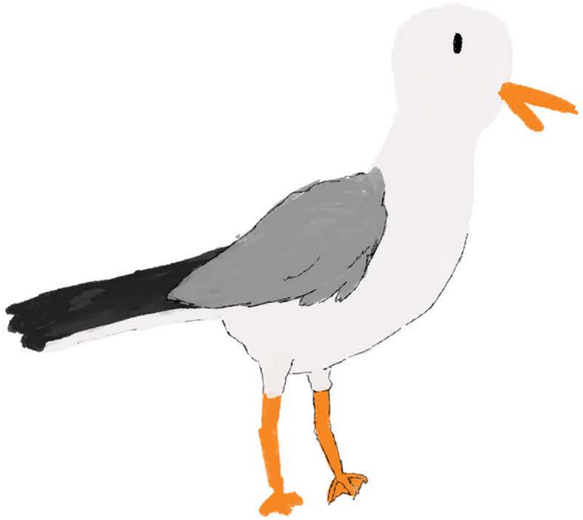
Jahiem

He is one of the main four of the illustration book, his appeared to be more skittish on the front view from the people, about all that, Janiem have a great relationship with Theodore in a small house in town.

His personality being introverted than his partner Theodore, Janiem tent to speak last after others has spoken, which lead to some hesitancies and confusion in between people. In other ways, Janiem is optimistic and open emotional towards anything, even though something gone bad towards him.

Jello

A robin bird who has over looked by other animals and has the free spirits with the basic knowledge about humans.



Kel

A seagull without the aware to identify which is right or wrong about the things, but he knows a lot about survival skills, knows garb things with his beak, time to time he will tempted to swallow it.

In this world, people always not great at manage trash while camping in the open field of the park.

They are either throw things in the garbage bag or throw away the trash in the countryside.

And the trashes are on all over the places
On the rocks.
On the ground.
On the bushes.
The field has no escape from the trashes which cover them whole, make them more less coloured than green inthe woods.
The situation felt like no one could stop it.

In the countryside

The animals are helpless from the trash that being trapped in them because of their craving on food and there are trash everywhere in the places.

WELCOME
TO ELM GREENFIELD
GARDEN

At the same time, A European Robin named Jello trapped in a plastic bag, her flock had migrated to other place due to multiple trashes in the enviroment.

After Jello getting out from the plastic bag, all has left is herself and the plastic bag at her side.

Jello flies but remain under the trees level.

She looks around and notices lots of trash are on ground all in all shapes and sizes.

WELCOME
TO ELM GREENFIELD
GARDEN

It has worries Jello, she thinks of herself:

what if she tells people about the high amount of trash in the environment to let them aware about this situation and make Jello herself and her animal friends comfortable.

Jello flies and head towards the beach resort to check on if there is anything she could help towards the animals that are in the beach.

She notices there are also have the high amount of trash which has affected the wildlife of the beach resort, which some of the trashes are buried in sand.

Lead to some seagulls and sea turtle swallow the trash that look like their favourite food or food scraps.

But one seagull named Kel is lucky enough to chocked out from the plastic bottle cap that is in his throat.

"What is that? That taste odd." Kel cough after spited out the plastic bottle cap that chock his throat for a few minutes.

“Oh me, I am fine, but I almost swallow that “food” in front of me, humans have thrown away in some point.” Kel exclaimed, as Jello nodded with the slight concern, as the same idea runs across her mind.

“Oh me, I am fine, but I almost swallow that “food” in front of me, humans have thrown away in some point.” Kel exclaimed, as Jello nodded with the slight concern, as the same idea runs across her mind.

“You know it is not too late to warn them about how their trash effects our natural environment.” Jello suggests and she completely knows that humans can be clean their natural habitat in some way and another.

“Okay.” Kel nodded before Jello and Kel both flap their wings and fly towards the sky and headed towards the countryside park where Jello originally came from.

As both fly pass through the city sky, there are cars in the streets, have grey gas pumping from the tubes of the cars and buildings that run by fossil fuel

“What is that awful smell, it smells worse than where I came from” she exclaims while wheezing. “It smells like burnt coal” Jello continues.

Kel looks back at Jello. “You know, I got use to the smell of the gas, but I did think it is quite bad.” Kel chuckle.

As both fly across from city to the countryside, they occupied with thoughts of how people could help them clean up the environment, which they fly in an hour to arrive at their destination.

When Kel and Jello arrived in Elm Greenfield Garden, there are people are already there, Jerry and Theodore who are get ready for have a picnic, this is their opportunity.

But Kel rushes towards the food on the table with the hunger that Kel had for the last hours.

Lead both Jahiem and Theodore jump from the sudden appearance of Kel, as Theodoe quickly pulls away Kel like a house parrot before Jello flies and land on the table.

“I am so sorry, my friend just hungry for food” Jello quickly apologies to both Jahiem and Theodoe.

“So, is there a reason it just eats the food without hesitation” Theodoe asked in a concern voice “he almost got choked by the plastic bottle cap earlier in the beach, also, there are some animals that suffered from the garbage other than Kel eating bottle caps.” Jello confirmed with concern.

Theodoe and Jahiem frown slightly while look at Jello “Glad to hear that. I mean, me and Jerry have never thought there will be huge impact on all animals” Theodoe said.

“We could be out of cold to just pick up the trash around here in this park as we can.” Jahiem suggests, Theodoe let out a soft smile, then put down Kel at the side of Jello. “Well, after finish some of our food.”

As so on all of them finish their food and picking up the used tissue in the bag, they open two garbage bags and start picking up the trash that were here before.

Kel helped pick up trash with his beak, Jello just stands on the table, waiting them finish pick the trash so she can lead the way where there is trash.

Which there are used tissue papers, plastic bottles, and plastic bags that are on the ground.

Despite the hard work, this was a great for a trash cleanup in the wild environment and every animal that lives there feel better.